If the number dwindles down to less than ten thousand it will not surprise those who have besand it will inot surprise those who have become aware of the fact that the first reports sent out are always favorable to the Republicans. The Republicans have, no doubt, secured the legislature, and this will result in the eleclegislature, and this will result in the election of a stalwart to succeed Senator Thur-

Colonel Cameron says his letter to Rev. Father Walsh, as published in the Appeal, contained an error. The expression "make up in prayer what we lack in gut" was wrong so far as the last word was concerned. That, he says, should have been "grub." The letter of Colonel Cameron has been censured by a very large number of our people. He may have felt aggrieved at Rev. Father Walsh's letter, but that did not justify him, an officer of the State, in writing a letter which was an insult to all the people at Camp Father Mathew. The colonel should have better control of his temper.

That Memphis needs sewers and stone-pavements no intelligent citizen will deny. There may be difference of opinion about the manner of raising the money to pay for these indispensable improvements, but each refugeeing citizen should make up his mind to comply with the rules finally adopted for putting the city in good sanitary condition. Many believe that sewering and paving will prevent the recurrence of yellow-fever. Whether that result will follow, of course, no one can say positively; but something of the sort must be done, and the work should commence as soon as possible.

The finally adopted for putting the threat of exposing the poisoning of the two men. John Freeland was arrested in East St. Louis last night by William R. Tipton. All the parties concerned, including Mrs. Danbrough, John Freeland and George Listen, are now confined in the Belleville jail to await a trial by jury. It is rumored that Mrs. Danbrough, on being told that the bodies would be exhumed, stated that she preferred the body of her brother-in-law taken up in preference to her husband, The fierce light that beats about beauty's a pistol and knife to execute her scheme. throne has suddenly been focussed, through the means of a scurrilous London paper, upon the two reigning belies of the metropolis. Mrs. Langtry is the daughter of the dean of Jersey an island which is formula. dean of Jersey, an island which is famous for pretty people, although it had not before attained the distinction of furnishing London with the beauty officially accepted as such. Her early life was passed entirely in the isle of her birth, and there seemed no reason why she should ever have left it, until one day an adventurous widower, who had al-ready taken one wife from Jersey, came thither again and carried off Miss Le Breton as his second. They came to London without exciting any great enthusiasm or becoming known to many members of society until 1877, then, through a concurrence of fortuitous circumstances, Mrs. Langtry was seen, admired and invented as a beauty by certain amateurs, who immediately sounded her praises throughout the town. When the town came to look at her it found she was indeed beautiful. She possessed wonderful eyes of a limpid, transparent blue, which always wore a winning expression. She was observed to be extremely modest in her dress, very quiet and unassuming in her manner and discreet and unastable in all her actions. Jealousy was disarmed, admiration increased and Mrs. Langtry became one of those sights of the town which the "Spring Captain" years to see, and for which country cousins make long pilgrimages by railway. "It seems but yesterday," says a recent number of Vanity Fair, "when 23 a bride she appeared in the park and set ten thousand tongues a wagging. nce then she has played a foremost part battle of life, and this bravely and well. You are spellbound by her ineffable sweetness before you have exchanged hardly a dozen words with her. Every well bred woman is of course free from gene, but this one is gifted with a deli-cious manner, simple and sympathetic as that wherewith mentally we endow Mignon, and she talks at once so prettily and so musically that you are insensi-bly impressed with the idea of her absolute smeerity. The bright, ringing treble; the light, springy step; the happy haleyon view of life characteristic of girlhood, are still hers. Above all, she is kindness itself incarnate. At Glasgow, where—that goes without the saying-she was the cynosure, she astonished the canny Scotch by her generous impartiali-ty. The plain and unattractive partner claimed her hand in the ballroom, and he was not refused, though Adonis stood at her ibre, she has preserved an exalted reputation for womanly virtue, and this, although she has been flattered and followed, caressed and made much of, more than any living woman. she has remained, however, the same, true to the gentle emblem forever hers, the Jer-gratitude of London society for introducing to it her niece, Miss Fitzpatrick, who subsequently married Mr. Cornwallis West, of Ruthin castle. Ruthin castle is somewhere ting abiding place for a beauty whose duty it is to be everywhere in London. To London, accordingly, Mrs. Cornwallis West went, and he was greeted by an admiration almost ufficient to coasole her for the most pro-ouged absence from her Welsh castle. Her ace is of that charming and peculiar style of her face, producing an effect which many London beauties have sought to imitate, but which none has approached. She is impulsive, original, daring, and says upon occasion the sprightliest things; and to her it was given, some little time, to throw the whole of royal ball into dismay by an untoward fainting fit, which was at once elevated to the rank of a social event. She dresses generally in a careless and sometimes in startling fashion. She is small in stature, of an admirable form, and rides, with a certain dash, both to bounds and in Rotton row.

ROME, October 14.—The pope, on Friday, underwent a slight surgical operation, but is not confined to bed.

LONDON, October 14 —Edward Levy Law-son, of the Daily Telegraph, has brought action against Labouchre for statements in the latter's paper, the Truth, growing out of the recent street affray between those jour-gressive, the last five crops being nearly four million bales greater than the last five crops before the war. He remarks that as the negroes supplied almost all the labor which planted, tended and saved these great crops, southern white men ought to see that this labor, the cheapest and for its purposes the best in the world, is a force they cannot ignore. The southern States cannot, he thinks, afford to permit these colored laborers to be abused or cheated. He is right; but we incline to go somewhat further than he. It seems to us that a population which produces so constant and so great a crop is not abused. If the negroes of the south were really in the sad condition in which it pleases some of our northern politicians to represent them, if they were murdered, oppressed, robbed and cheated everywhere, it is not possible that they would produce now a greater cotton crop than the largest under slavery; that the crop should be increasing steadily year by year, and that, besides the cotton, they should produce also, as they do, a larger amount than ever before of their own food supplies. In short, the statistics which Mr. Atkinson sends us go very far to disprove the accurations brought against the south of general oppression and abuse of the blacks. We do not, of course, doubt that there are instances, probably numerous cases, in which the negro cultivator is cheated, or robbed, or unjustly dealt with. Northern papers are full of complaints of northern and white laborers who are also wronged, often in ways which it is difficult to prevent, and the ignorance and, more than that, the wasteful and unthrifty habits of the southern negro expose him peculiarly to become the prey of sharpers. But in the fact of the immense and continually and steadily increasing cotton crop it is nonsense to assert that there is general terrorism, oppression or cheating of the blacks. We advise the Republicass to give up that point in their argument. But we advise the southern whites Lebanon, Ill., October 11.—The old but true saying that murder will out is again verified. Not longer than two years ago a family consisting of husband and wife, two children, and a brother of the husband, lived in seeming harmony about three miles southeast of this place. He was an industrious, miserly sort of a man, and it was consequently runored around that he might have considerable wealth hidden away somewhere, known only to himself. Washington, October 12—The postmaster-general's estimates, now being prepared for the next fiscal year, will show a very heavy increase over last year. The total estimates will reach nearly forty million dollars. This is largely accounted for by the tremendous growth of the western States and Territories, which has required a very great increase in new routes and postoffices. Judge Key says that the estimates will be trimmed down to the very lowest possible figure, but they will still be so large that congress will, no doubt, be startled. In this department, however, there is little chance of cutting expenses, unless congress should conclude to reduce salaries of postmasters and rates of transportation on railroads, which are among the largest interests. The postmaster-general will show that the funprecedented growth of the west and northwest is the chief cause of the increased estimates. WASHINGTON, October 12 -The postmas

The Verdict on the Adrian Fair Dis-DETROIT, October 13.—The coroner's jury which held an inquest to determine the cause of the falling of the grand stand at Adrian fair grounds, by which fifty lives were lost and two hundred and seventy injured, rendered a verdict late Saturdey night to the effect that W. A Defrauded Preacher. Georgia Enquirer: "A colored preacher traveled from Social Circle to Conyers, Geor-gia, to preach the other day. After he had finished his sermon he asked for a contribution from the brethren to carry him back home. He raised ninety-five cents, but one dollar was required to pay his fare on the cars, and he asked for the other nickel. Two deaths have occurred since six o'clock last evening, as follows: Mrs. Mark Izard and Mrs. Lattimore. Mrs. Izard died and was buried last night by a few young men who had the courage to remain in town; the other died since morning. All that have died so far were females. Several men have been taken sick with the disease, but all have recovered. The town is depopulated. The board of health is busy disinfecting and burn-ing the bedding of those who have died. A train arrived from Little Rock last night with three colored nurses and disinfectants. No new cases have developed since last report.

Shocking Affair in Kansas-General Bull and Two Employes Killed by an Infuriated Elk.

Downs, Kansas, October 13 .- A messen-pecial to the Cincinnati Enquirer.

ger from Bull's City, twenty miles west, announces the tragic death of General H. C. Bull and two other men, Robert Bricknell and George Nicholas, and the wounding of another. Bricknell and Nicholas were employes of General Bull. The general has a park fitted up at great expense, and has inclosed therein a number of wild animals, including three ally one a powerful huge agt. cluding three etk, one a powerful, huge, antcluding three elk, one a powerful, huge, antlered male. The general was accustomed to walk through this inclosure daily, and hundreds of visitors have at different times been shown through the place. At about seven o'clock yesterday morning Bricknell entered the park to care for the animals. He immediately discovered an unusual appearance about the large elk, which showed hostile signs, compelling him to retire from the park. Bricknell hastened to inform the general of the fact, and arming themselves with heavy clubs both went to the park, the general remarking he could subdue the anigeneral remarking he could subdue the ani-mal. Without a sign of warning the now infuriated beast dashed at the men, striking General Bull and knocking him down. The elk then drew back and attacked the general with increased force, using his antiers with terrible effect, piercing the prostrate body of the general through the breast until the prong protruded, then tossing his form high in the air and over his head. The elk then resumed the attack on Bricknell, inflicting terrible injuries. Here George Nicholas, who had witnessed the occurrence, ran to the rescue with a heavy club, hoping to disable the animal and compel it to desist. He was rolled upon the ground, and then tossed upon the fence by the elk. At this time William Sherman, with courage, hasimmense antiers and thrown over the fence. Mrs. Bull was meanwhile a horrified spectator of the terrible tragedy, and, wild with grief and horror, ran to the town for help. A remedial and resuscitating properities and the closest analysis reveals nothing in the composition of a deleterious nature. It does not deteriorate, is an agreeable cordial as well as a potent medicine, and when mixed with brackish or unwholesome water neutralizes its hurtful properties. The decizens of malarious localities, not only in the United States but in the tropics, regard it as an invaluable protection, and in hosts of families it is kept constantly on hand. As the tide of emigration spreads farther westward, the deman-i for it among those compelled to encounter the viciositudes of climate constantly increase.

and life quite extinct. His body, with the injured men, was conveyed to the family residence and surgical aid summoned. A surgical examination of General Bull showed forty-four wounds of greater or less severity. The general was killed by a wound from the antier, which entered the chest at the right nipple, passing diagonally through the body, and coming out on the left side, about the fifth rib. The prong passed through both lungs, and probably the heart, causing instant death. Robert Bricknell received thirty-two wounds, and George Nicholas rethirty-two wounds, and George Nicholas re-ceived sixty-four wounds. The elk has with much danger been secured, but as a captive still paws and stamps the earth with great fury. He is unusually large, weighing nine hundred pounds. At no time has an event occurred which caused such a general shock throughout northwestern Kansas—in fact, throughout the whole State. The news will be received with more than ordinary regret
